Hello from Hollard

Honda SRS airbag inflator recall

We have been asked by Honda South Africa to assist them in contacting owners of Honda cars that were manufactured between the years 2001 to 2014. Honda is recalling all the SRS airbag inflators on these cars because they might be faulty, as explained in the included letter from Honda.

Please read the included letter from Honda for a full explanation of the problem. Contact them immediately to check if your car is affected, by any of the following methods:

- Entering your car's VIN number on Honda's website and they will contact you
- Calling Honda's customer service on 0800 466 321
- Sending an email to recall@honda.co.za and they will contact you

Remember that it is your responsibility under your policy's conditions to maintain your car and to take all reasonable steps to prevent damage. This means that you must have your car inspected by Honda, and have the airbag replaced if required.

Kind regards
